

Your Legacy can Give Hope to the Helpless

Save-a-Pet: a Pro-Life Shelter

Save-a-Pet does not euthanize animals other than those that are terminally sick or injured, are in distress, and cannot be treated.

All of our resources are used to fulfil our main objectives which are:

- To rescue, rehabilitate and provide care and shelter for abused and abandoned domestic pets.
- To render whatever support and veterinary assistance is achievable to the domestic pets of genuinely needy people.
- To function with a pro-life policy and euthanize only on the advice of a veterinarian.
- To find good (pre-approved) homes for the domestic pets under our care.
- To educate the public in taking better care of their animals with emphasis on the importance of sterilisation.

Being the ONLY PRO-LIFE SHELTER in the Nelson Mandela Bay Metropole, at any given time we have well over 200 dogs and cats in our care. Along with caring for the animals at the shelter, Save-a-Pet is also involved in assisting many needy animals in the local community, to whom we offer free treatment and sterilisation.

Legacy Giving

Protect the Helpless at no Cost to Yourself

Your Will is your final testament of how you want to leave all your worldly goods in the event of your death. It is your last act of kindness to whomever you feel committed towards. In due season, family, friends or your favoured charity could be blessed by the inheritance you've thoughtfully planned.

A Legacy is a Gift that costs you nothing over your lifetime, yet allows you to honour your loved ones after your death.

You may have sympathy with the untold number of homeless domestic pets in our city, in which case you'll want to enable good work that can be carried out in your name. You may also think back to beloved pets who have shared life's happinesses with you.

Save-a-Pet believes that every animal is unique and should feel protected, appreciated and loved by a responsible owner. This is difficult to do when there are simply far too many animals than there are homes.

As such, Save-a-Pet's policies may appeal to you; one of which deals with pet overpopulation – putting a stop to breeding allows us to better manage the animals that are already in existence. It is particularly in this area of veterinary assistance, and nutritious feeding of animals, that the tremendous value of bequests lie.

One of the easiest ways to ensure that we can protect pets in years to come, is to include Save-a-Pet as a beneficiary in your Will.

SAVE-A-PET'S STRUCTURE

As a fully registered non-profit-organisation (031-774 NPO), we are governed by a Constitution which specifies the legal position, the objectives, the powers and the structure of the Society.

Underlining our authenticity, we operate according to the Codes of Good Practice for South African Nonprofit Organisations as recommended by the Department of Social Development.

EXTENDED BENEFITS

Being tax-exempt as a Public Benefit Organisation, any funds left to Save-a-Pet will also be tax exempt in terms of section 4(h) of the Estate Duty Act No. 45 of 1955.

Allows each and every homeless pet in our care an equal chance of happiness

Leave a Lasting Statement

Many people would love to support a worthy cause but may not have the disposable income to do so at this time in their lives.

When you are drafting your Will, you'll first want to take care of your loved ones. If you love animals, you may then consider leaving a gift to Save-a-Pet to enable us to carry on our mission to help animals... in your name.

We welcome you to contact us (041 372 1780) so that we can discuss your wishes and concerns. If you are interested, we would like you to get to know us – who and what we are – and for you to hear more about Save-a-Pet projects and the work we do with the pets that we are able to rescue.

Please keep in mind that it is advisable to consult your financial advisor, attorney or bank manager when considering any amendment to your Will.

For more information, please contact our Manager (041 372 1780) who will put you in touch with the right person to answer any queries you may have.

Thank You
